

LEARNING TO LEAD IN HEALTH

COLLABORATIVE LEADERSHIP, HEALTHY PARTNERSHIPS

- Strengthen your abilities and confidence in your leadership
- Become more strategic to effectively lead your organisation sustainably
- Explore the challenges and opportunities you face in the health sector in Scotland
- Gain practical skills to develop successful partnerships

2 PROGRAMMES | EDINBURGH AND GLASGOW | STARTING FEBRUARY 2015

"Strengthening third sector leaders is crucial to engendering a strong sector. This programme has significantly increased my capacity as a leader and therefore the organisation's capacity to effectively deliver on its ambitious vision of health, wellbeing and equality has been enhanced"

MARUSKA GREENWOOD, DIRECTOR

Voluntary health organisations are key players in the transformation of public services and in the necessary shift towards prevention and early intervention. The changing policy environment is both an opportunity and a challenge for voluntary health organisations.

Learning to Lead in Health is a programme designed to support you to work in partnership with other organisations and the public sector.

You will have the space to learn with the support of your peers, discussing strategic questions around effectively seizing opportunities and managing the challenges of working in the current environment.

DURING THIS PROGRAMME YOU WILL:

- Learn more about your own leadership style and your areas of strength and areas for growth
- Explore how you become more strategic and identify what you need to effectively lead your organisation sustainably in the current climate
- Share current knowledge about challenges and opportunities in the health sector in Scotland and identify what this means for how you lead your organisation
- Explore partnership working and develop practical skills to develop successful partnerships
- Hear from guest speakers in different sectors

PROGRAMME FEES

Voluntary Health Scotland has secured funding from the Scottish government to provide learning opportunities for voluntary health organisations.

This programme is therefore available to 28 learners at no cost to your organisation (usually costing £1,200 per person).

QUALIFICATION

By completing this programme, you are eligible to achieve an Institute of Leadership and Management (ILM) Award in Leadership (SCQF 9) qualification.

To achieve the qualification, you must attend the whole programme and complete one assessment. This is subject to an ILM registration and marking fee of £100, which is not covered by VHS funding.

PARTICIPANTS

This programme is designed for senior managers and leaders of voluntary health organisations in Scotland that are seeking to grow, develop and work in partnership, whether in an influencing role or service delivery basis.
